4 YEARS OF EMPOWERING WOMEN!

Go Negosyo has been at the forefront of promoting the entrepreneurial mindset. Last March 2, it gathered over 10,000 participants - mostly women - at the World Trade Center to learn and get inspired at the 4th Women Entrepreneurship Summit and Expo. To celebrate women, 2012's ten Go Negosyo Mompreneurs, Business Enablers, and Social Entrepreneur Awardees joined successful personalities and womenpreneurs in sharing their success stories of starting and running a business, and expressing their thoughts on women issues such as health and wellness, beauty, and women's rights.

BPI Family Savings Bank, through its Ka-Negosyo Business Loans, joined Go Negosyo in recognizing entrepreneurs who serves an inspiration to budding negosyantes and sources financially sound business practices. This year, [illegible] of [illegible] received BPI Family's Business Excellence Award.

BOYSEN® KNOxOUT™ PROJECT: EDSA
CHANGE IS IN THE AIR

by [illegible]

We used to believe that art can change the world. Project: EDSA, Boysen KNOxOUT's public art initiative, begins at the most basic level, by cleaning the air we breathe.

Boysen KNOxOUT Project: EDSA aims to lessen air pollution on Metro Manila's main thoroughfare by using air-cleaning paint in large-scale art. Eight artworks covering about 1,000 square meters each will be painted on selected walls and MRT pillars on Epifanio de los Santos Avenue using the paint Boysen KNOxOUT, which transforms specific toxins in the atmosphere into harmless residue.

EDSA is one of the most polluted areas in the country with average nitrogen oxide (NOx) levels 4 ½ times the safety limit set by the World Health Organization. Scientific tests have established that every square meter of surface painted with KNOxOUT eliminates the NOx and other toxins from the exhaust of 10 cars. This means that each 1,000 sq m artwork will neutralize the harmful emissions of 10,000 cars daily. The acronym in Project: EDSA could stand for "Everyone Deserves Safe Air."

The artists of Project: EDSA aren't just expressing their concern for the environment—they are actively combating pollution.

The first Boysen KNOxOUT Project: EDSA artwork confronts the daily chaos of EDSA with a vision of the symmetry at the heart of all things. The Social Realist [illegible] Tence Ruiz has painted the San Lorenzo Village wall with arresting marine fossil forms inspired by the work of the naturalist Ernst Haeckel.

In conceptualizing the artwork Tence Ruiz had to answer a number of questions. "How do we make something that might catch attention on Edsa? How do we compete with the huge billboards and their straight-to-the-crotch approach? In the first place, who is our audience?"

The artist decided to address Metro Manila's commuters, the people who ride the bus every day. They travel more slowly down the highway and have time to take in their surroundings.

Then there was the choice of subject. Lead curator Marian Pastor Roces, whose team conceptualized and supervises Boysen KNOxOUT Project: EDSA, was adamant about steering clear of the obvious. "Please, no dolphins." "I already do work that is a little on the gruesome side," Tence Ruiz notes. "EDSA commuters are already tired; I didn't want to do something jarring. I was looking for something light and slightly whimsical, but with meaning.

"At the same time it had to be complex. We cannot compete with the seductions of photography unless we do something difficult and complicated."

Tence Ruiz's San Lorenzo wall was launched in May 2011, and today the 1,000 sq m surface is almost complete. "I ended up doing something I've always been preoccupied with but never thought would apply to Project EDSA—fossils.

[illegible]

The artists of Project: EDSA aren't just expressing their concern for the environment—they are actively combating pollution.

"It occurred to me as work on the wall progressed that traces of grass on EDSA I close my eyes and remember my Boy Scout days on the beach in Batangas with the starfish, sea cucumbers, barnacles." We are an archipelago after all, never far from water.

Nestled among the strangely familiar images is a single word, "Ganap."

"It's a poetic word, bringing up the fullness of understanding, the completion of pregnancy, a finished cycle, wholeness," Tence Ruiz says. "I just wanted to throw it out there, so the man on the street might have an entry point for thinking of the piece." He is pleased at the way the general public has reacted to the artwork. "The bottled water vendor asked me if Ganap was a poetic list," he laughs. "And yes, it does sound like it. People ask me if these are aliens or sea monsters, and the work has been described as a fantasy."

The more cynical observer would assume a more extreme reaction to the San Lorenzo artwork, but the piece has not been vandalized. When Tence Ruiz's team was applying the first coat of paint, some street artists had left graffiti on the wall. Instead of covering them off, the artist left a note inviting them to join the team of painters. "If you want to put your mark, come and see me." The graffiti artists didn't take him up on his invitation, but they must have appreciated it because "Ganap" has remained untouched.

Of course the greater danger to the artwork is the pollution itself. Tence Ruiz's painting on the San Lorenzo Village wall on EDSA remains vivid and spot-free ten months since it was first presented to the public.

"KNOxOUT transforms any painted surface into an air purifier through photocatalysis. When the paint is exposed to light, it reacts with toxic air pollutants and converts them into harmless substances that can be washed away by rain," explains Johnson Ongking, vice-president of Boysen Paints, the sole sponsor of Project: EDSA. The public art initiative has received enthusiastic support from the Metro Manila Development Authority.

"As long as the paint is on the wall and it's exposed to light, it will continue to clean the air," Ongking says. "Using Boysen KNOxOUT on EDSA definitely improves the quality of the air we breathe, but it is not the cure-all. We need a holistic approach to addressing air pollution—fewer and cleaner vehicles on the road, better public transportation, more walking and biking."

Whenever we use motor transport, we contribute to the problem of air pollution. Boysen KNOxOUT gives us a means to become part of the solution. Change is in the air, and it begins with us.

CIVIL AVIATION AUTHORITY OF THE PHILIPPINES:
REVVING UP, SOARING HIGH

By [illegible]

Maintenance is sometimes overlooked as something that is easily done and demands nothing but the routine checking of certain things; making sure that something properly works or functions. But that is not the case for the Civil Aviation Authority of the Philippines (CAAP). Inaugurated on March of 2008, CAAP is both a regulator and a service provider for the aviation industry in the country.

[illegible]

CAAP Director General Ramon Gutierrez [illegible]

[illegible]

> "It is our commitment to the nation and to the Filipino people to do our best in order to serve them better and to give them something to be proud of. We are one with the government's vision of the country being a hub for progress and economic sustainability, and we would be contributing to this by doing our best to improve our gateways and our airports and in upgrading the aviation industry and making sure that they are in check and at par with international standards."

Fitness and leisure amenities [illegible] at your new home

Live your dream at Manhattan Heights.

Life is all about challenges. They make each day more exciting and push you to always be at the top of your game. From the moment you step out of the house, however, doing what you set out to accomplish for the day takes effort and patience—especially when the rush hour is in full swing.

When it comes to the bigger and more serious challenge of fulfilling your dream of a convenient lifestyle, Megaworld Corporation has something exceptional to offer: a well-planned condominium home at Manhattan Heights in the Araneta Center. In this vibrant community, you're free from the stress of the gridlock, giving you and your loved ones more time to live, eat and do more.

The third phase of the [illegible] Manhattan Garden City project, Manhattan Heights showcases a premier location near the exciting attractions of the Araneta Center as well as a variety of schools, workplaces, medical centers and churches. It also boasts a direct link to the LRT-2 and MRT-3 train systems, which lets you enjoy a traffic-free route to the most important destinations in the city.

Tower [illegible] of Manhattan Heights, the first residential tower to be built for this phase, is set to come on stream soon, offering condo buyers the opportunity to command the pace of their everyday lives.

Aside from overlooking the [illegible] Araneta Center cityscape, Manhattan Heights features a [illegible] garden walkway. This serves as your exclusive connection to the Smart Araneta Coliseum and over a hundred leisure and retail establishments at the Gateway Mall, Farmers Plaza, Ali Mall and Shopwise. In this fun zone, you can do your weekly groceries, shop to your heart's content, dine well into the evening and catch the last full show of the hottest box-office hit.

If staying in is more your thing, Manhattan Heights has its own amenity area filled to the brim with recreational amenities and sports facilities. Homeowners also have the privilege of enjoying the play amenities in other phases, which are all interconnected through landscaped walkways.

Commuting is already a breeze with the project's instant access to the trains. However, train riders aren't the only ones that have it easy. Those traveling by [illegible] can simply stroll outside and easily catch a bus at the Araneta Center Bus terminal.

Living your dream may be challenging, but it will always be fun and fulfilling when you call Megaworld's Manhattan Heights your home.

Discover Manhattan Garden City. Call [illegible] or visit the showrooms at the [illegible] Level of Gateway Mall and 2nd Level of Ali Mall.

36 hours around the Philippines

By RAYMOND ANG

I have a problem. And as problems go, it's strictly a First World as Third World kind of thing. By the glory of family trips and the occasional press trip, I'm what you'd call well-traveled. While I haven't gone on African safaris and to the European cities less traveled like Prague and the like (I've only done the Eurotrip Starter Pack—Spain, France, England), I've been to the more popular tourist spots. I'm nearly out at a [illegible].

With the buzz of budget airlines and that fantastic new DOT campaign, it's time we make the summer of 2012 the summer we finally see the Philippines. With a little help from our friends, Young Star takes you from Batanes to Bacolod on 36-hour weekends around the country you're never going to forget.

But the problem is that the bigger my world gets, the more I realize I've hardly seen home. The places I've been, in one way or another, all provided some unforgettable life experiences—little moments you stow away and eventually gather in that "whole life flashed before my eyes" montage they say plays before your life ends. Surely that moment in the train ride from Paris to Barcelona when you saw the seasons change before your eyes, that moment the French cold gave way to Mediterranean warmth. Surely that time on the Great Wall of China when the wind blew stronger and you realized how slight and insignificant your existence is in the grand scheme of things.

But while every trip is pregnant with the promise of new horizons and new experiences, guilt rears its ugly head every time that plane lands back home in Manila and you realize you haven't really been anywhere but Boracay. I've been to almost all continents but I haven't even seen Cebu. I've immersed myself in foreign cultures but haven't even paid my respects at the Banaue Rice Terraces.

I know I'm not alone. I hear this same sentiment everywhere—a sentiment we casually brush off after a split second, when we take advantage of package promos and go to the same destinations. A friend of mine, during a recent dinner, told me about the Hong Kong trip he's taking—his first plane trip out of Manila, paid for by his family's newly acquired financial stability. We wondered why the first instinct was "Hong Kong" when he hasn't even been to Boracay. We wondered, questioned, and then got distracted by all the restaurants he'll get to eat in in Hong Kong. Hell, now I want to go to Hong Kong.

But with summer approaching [illegible] and a renewed interest in local tourism thanks to a particularly persuasive campaign, there's no better time to explore what we have here. It's cheaper. It's easier. It might even be more fulfilling. So ditch the dreams of [illegible] for a while. Think local. Think beaches, think nature. But most of all, think [illegible].

Max's Infuses Classic Filipino Flavors Into Heartwarming Fare for Lent

Max's, the Filipino's most loved fast-casual dining restaurant, has created a light and heartwarming fare for diners who will be veering away from meat dishes this Season of Lent.

Light and Delectable Dishes

"Max's thought about creating a unique and pleasant experience for Filipinos who will be taking time away from their busy schedules to observe Lenten traditions. Max's non-meat dishes are not only healthy and satisfying, these are uniquely Filipino and ideal for sharing by friends and families," shared Bobby Simborio, Corporate Communications Officer for Max's Group of Companies.
